Christmas 2013

We are just past the busiest week of the year in The Cleaford Christian Trust!

We are delighted to have been invited to eleven school assemblies/carol concerts/ productions. We have videoed productions at Northmead Junior School in Guildford and St. Andrew's Infant School in Farnham. The proceeds from the resulting DVDs will be sold to support the work at the Brasov Children's Hospital.

We have received very large collections of toys, games, craft materials and toiletries for children in Romania from Hale School in Farnham and Farnham Baptist Church. Many thanks to both. Hale School have always done well for us, but I think this year has set a new record in generosity.

On the Facebook page for Harghita Christian Camp you can see a steady flow of pictures showing the progress of the dining room project. The last pictures we saw showed the roof almost complete, although the builders and numerous volunteers have been working in cold weather, plus some snow. It would be wonderful if we could raise a little more finance towards this project, so that the workers can be paid for this winter work.

It has been a good year in the Trust, as we head towards the completion of 20 years next summer. We are also heading towards total cash receipts since we started of £973,000—will we have reached £1 million by the time of our anniversary next July?

We couple our wishes to all our supporters and friends for a happy and peaceful Christmas with grateful thanks for the fantastic support you have given to our little charity, consistently over many years. We can all have a rest over the holiday period, and then crack on into the anniversary, and the special celebration weekend on 20/21 September 2014.

Merry Christmas and a very happy New Year!
